The A. P. A. is a political society that will soon run its course.

FACTORYS are invariably found to the destruction of political parties.

The gold output this year of New Mexico and Arizona will be double that of last year.

No one man is now big enough to dictate the politics of the people of this country.

A little brief authority is sometimes a big thing even with a county central committee.

The way to boom your business is to boom your town and all of its surrounding resources.

Howell is arranging a grand railroad celebration for the 15th, and the whole territory will be represented.

COUNTRY saving and town building, and trying to settle political rows, grow distasteful as one grows older.

It is estimated that there are fully 90,000 negroes in Oklahoma. Most of them are in Logan and Blaine counties.

The populists will hold their county convention to-morrow, and will make the attempt to nominate a county ticket.

It is confidently asserted that the Pease Valley railroad will be extended from Roswell to White Oaks during the next year.

ANTONIO JOSEPH has been a professional office seeker all his life. Since 1882 he has continuously kept himself at the public crib.

SENATOR HILL is trying to harmonize the democratic factions in New York. He could get a few pointers in that line in this country.

It will be a short political campaign in this country. The republican primaries will be held on the 15th of October, and the convention on the 18th.

The democrats are so badly demoralized in this country that it is extremely doubtful whether they can muster forces enough to name a county ticket.

The democratic majority two years ago in Arizona will be wiped out in November, and it is believed that the territory will drop into the republican column.

The store of the merchant who doesn't advertise is like the north pole, in one respect—nobody finds it. But it is different in another respect—nobody tries to find it.

The people of Gallup want a new county, and the republican party of the county is pledged to help make the passage of the law at the next session of the legislature.

The happy settlement of the Cochiti land grant cases in favor of the miners will help to the rapid development of that territory.

EX-PRESIDENT HARRISON told a republican mass meeting that a republican congress meant prosperity. The ex-president emphasized what the present congress has taught them.

Peace hath its victories. Miss Frances Willard, the famous temperance advocate, was 55 years old yesterday, and the event was celebrated last night in Chicago by a monster demonstration in her honor.

J. F. WALLACE, who published and edited the St. Johns, Arizona, Herald for the past eight years, steps down and out, and Art McDonald takes his place as publisher and editor. Success to the new management.

The board of trustees of the town of Raton elected Col. J. W. Dwyer mayor of that town, vice W. E. Symonds resigned. The colonel is one of the progressive citizens of Colfax county, and will make a good mayor for Raton.

The loss of trade in the United States during July, as reflected by bank clearings, was $637,648,713 as compared with July 1893. But comparing it with two years ago the loss of trade in July exceeded a billion dollars.

The Gallup republicans in mass convention adopted resolutions favoring a new county, and instructed the secretary to write Hon. Thomas B. Catron expressing their gratification over his nomination for congressional delegate.

There is a warm feeling of friendship on the part of business men of this city toward the Goss Military Institute, which is a model military school. No effort should be spared to increase its list of pupils and the usefulness of the school.

The Associated Press made a remarkable increase in business the past year, and is beyond question the world's greatest telegraphic news collector. The Citizens is a member of the Associated Press, and has the exclusive day report for this city.

The wearisome brag of the prize fighters now mingle with the hoarse brawls of the political ward strikers; and the wail of the populist agitator percolates the precinct primaries along with the commands of the democratic bosses. And yet we wonder at the increase of crime.

Reports of continued Japanese successes are received at Washington, and it is thought the war will soon be over with victory on the side of the Japanese, who are now invading Chinese territory in a manner believed to be resistless, notwithstanding the density of the Mongolian population.

This week a severe storm swept the Atlantic coast from Florida to New York. Reports from Hatteras and points south show great damage along coast with several wrecks. Timely warning was given shipping by the signal service of the storm, which doubtless saved many marine disasters. The damage already reported exceeds a million dollars.

The following sensible paragraph is taken from the Socorro Chieflain: "The territorial press is finding fault with the management of the territorial fair just held at Albuquerque. The proper way, according to our idea, is to build up the fair and make it a success. Albuquerque has done wonders in keeping it up and all New Mexico should help and not find fault."

The Roswell club, an association of business men organized for the purpose of advancing the interests of New Mexico, and particularly those of Chavez, Eddy and Lincoln counties, took possession of their new club rooms at Roswell this morning. The club, in a postal card to THE CITIZEN, says: "We take this occasion to remind you of the Railroad celebration, which will take place here October 15th, and extend to you and your community a hearty invitation to be present."

Instead of discussing the political issues of the campaign, Mr. Joseph is devoting his time to a trade of abuse of his opponent, Mr. Catron. The Springer Stockman says of his disagreeable plan of political work: "The Stockman will condemn such methods, whether adopted by friend or foe (politically), and we were indeed sorry to hear Antonio Joseph open the territorial campaign at Santa Fe last Saturday evening by making a violent personal attack upon his opponent, T. B. Catron."

The democrats are beginning to realize that their argument that the people of New Mexico must vote for Joseph to secure statehood, is having a different effect than what they anticipated. There are whole precincts in this territory whose voters do not want statehood, and they are going to vote for Mr. Catron under the idea that his election will prevent the passage of the statehood bill.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY SIMS, of the land office, Washington, D. C., has rendered the following important land decision: "The good faith of a settlement claim is not impeached by absence from the land to earn money for support of settlers' family, and to purchase the land."

LOW WALLACE, ex-governor of New Mexico, won literary renown as an author. And now it is said that our present executive is at work upon a very interesting historical novel, entitled "Ships that Pass in the Night."

In New Mexico the wool business has been destroyed and the principal industry ruined by the democratic congress. It is not likely that the men who have thus been driven into bankruptcy will look the hand that smote them.

It is the perpetual office seeker who fastens himself like a barnacle to the party in power, who finally drags it down to defeat. Then it is that the perpetual office seeker fastens himself to the victorious party.

When the fact is known that Boston has $200,000,000 drawing interest from people in all parts of the United States it is not surprising that her press and people are untiring advocates of a gold standard.

The territorial republican central committee has appointed the following executive committee: Hon. L. Bradford Prince, Col. Max Frost, Thos. Hughes, Gen. E. L. Bartlett and M. A. Otero.

JAMES G. BLAINE was "the man from Maine." Thomas B. Reed is "the man from New England." Blaine never had New England solidly behind him, but it looks as though Reed may.

The lands of the Rio Grande valley available to cultivation by irrigation will be worth more to the future state of New Mexico than all the gold and silver mines in the mountains.

The territorial republican central committee is urged to put a hundred speakers on the stump in this territory, and make this an aggressive campaign of education.

The official call for the republican county convention will be printed to-morrow. It provides for the fairest primary elections ever held in this country.

The New Mexican has opened a campaign of slander and vilification against Mr. Catron, which will not in the least affect the vote that gentleman will receive.

J. E. CURRIS, the editor of the Clayton Enterprise, says he has "wasted" four years of his life in trying to build up the democratic party in Union county.

NOT GUILTY. Smith, Who Shot and Killed Hilton, Discharged.

CASE AT LAS CRUCES.

Las Cruces, N. M., Sept. 26.—The trial of J. B. Smith, charged with the murder of Charles F. Hilton, in the district court, was begun last Monday. Smith and Hilton had some difficulty over a piece of land on the Sacramento river. It appears Smith claims Hilton tore down the fence and took therefrom his water. Smith protested and so armed himself with the intention of killing Hilton, which he did on the 5th day of last February. The prosecution endeavors to show a conspiracy between Smith and his friends to murder Hilton. The defense also endeavors to prove that Hilton's aggressive attitude forced the fight upon Smith and that he (Smith) was justified in shooting Hilton, and, if I remember well, this murder caused quite an excitement among the mountaineers, and Hilton's brother, upon learning of the murder of his brother Charles offered a reward of $250 for the capture of Smith. Smith could not be heard of for five or six days, when it was learned that Smith had given himself up to Deputy J. Morgan, and was at once released on bond. A. J. Fountain and S. B. Newcomb appear for the prosecution, and H. B. Ferguson and J. B. Fowler for the defense.

The first witness was Dr. G. C. Irvin, and he testified that he had examined Hilton's body about fifteen days after Hilton was dead. Found three wounds on his body—one located on the right side of the body, between the top of the shoulder and the lowest rib below; one entered between the fifth and sixth ribs and lodged in the shoulder on the opposite side; one passed through the base of the heart, severing the blood vessels. Two of the shots entered between the fifth and sixth ribs, and the floating ribs below, and came out in front, directly through the body. The range of the two shots was upward. McNair testified that he and Bill Babers were hauling rails for Hilton. The wagon was loaded and started away, when Smith and party came up. Smith and Hilton passed a few words. Smith said something which he

WITNESSES DID NOT HEAR.

Hilton paid no attention and kept on going. When Hilton started to dismount his horse Smith fired, and then Hilton fell off of his horse and traveled for a short distance, when Smith again shot. Hilton fell and made an attempt to rise, lifting his head, when Smith stepped to the right and again fired the third and last shot.

Bill Babers corroborated the statement of McNair and also denied on cross examination that he had told Tom Tucker that Hilton made an attempt to pull a pistol when the last shot was fired by Smith.

Geo. Babers testified that last November Smith said in his presence that if Hilton removed the corral and fence on his (Smith's) ranch, that he (Smith) would kill him.

WORLD KILL HILTON.

"and did so, but I do not know if he moved the corral and fence."

The first witness for the defense was Benj. Allen, your reporter then left the court room and was unable to get the testimony of Allen, Tom Tucker and W. F. Gilliland. However, Gilliland and Oliver Lee testified that McNair's reputation for truth was very bad.

A. O. Chatfield testified that he went with McNair to Hilton's ranch about an hour after the shooting. McNair said Hilton had asked him to along with them that morning, but he refused. Chatfield heard McNair tell Frank Holman that Hilton made a gun play.

McNair denied this statement.

Smith's father in law was then called and he testified that he had been told that Hilton made threats to get Smith's place or kill him and had notified Smith of his intentions.

Niles Chatfield is the name of his father-in-law. Mr. Chatfield then described the meeting of Smith and Hilton and the shooting. Hilton and his men were hauling rails from Smith's ranch. Smith approached him and said to Hilton, "I want to speak with you." Hilton replied,

"GO TO HELL.

"I have no talk to make with you," and just then reached for his gun. Smith persisted and Smith discharged his first shot, Hilton kept on reaching for his gun and so Smith shot again. Hilton fell from his horse and tried again to reach for his gun, Smith shot the third and last shot. After it was all over Smith called upon Babers to witness that Hilton had made an attempt to draw his gun. Babers said this was a fact.

Frank Chatfield endorsed the statement of the elder Chatfield. Your reporter was again called away and so omitted the remainder of the testimony.

Nevertheless a night session was held, and having completed the witness, the lawyers then began to argue the case on which Fountain and Newcomb made strong arguments for the territory, and at 10 o'clock the jury retired, and that night the jury was unable to return a verdict but at 10 o'clock this morning the jury came out with the verdict of not guilty. Before the verdict was read tears rolled down the cheeks of Smith.

PEOPLE'S PARTY.

Some of our citizens have been trying to organize a people's party. They did not make much noise to start with, but they evidently done some good underground work. A meeting is called for to-day to organize and call a county convention. The people's party will nominate a ticket in this way—they will hold their convention after the two great parties have nominated their tickets. The people's party will then endorse the very best men from both tickets, and thus make the people's party ticket.

STANDARD.

He's at Madrid. Col. Buell, of the Cerrillos Rustler, says that "Jim Flynn, the Cerrillos writer, is and has been steadily working at the Hard Coal mine at Madrid ever since his return from Albuquerque, where Morgan bunked out of his contest. Flynn has not missed a day's work, has been strictly sober and in every way has depicted himself as a self-respecting man. When anything comes up which is worthy of his attention he will probably be heard from." This is in answer to an item published in THE CITIZEN, asking "where was Mr. Flynn?" THE CITIZEN endorses every word contained in the article from the Rustler. Flynn is all right.

A POINTER TO ADVERTISERS.

The big circulation of THE CITIZEN continues increasing. The CITIZEN today received by mail from Las Cruces, the prosperous town, 211 miles south of the metropolis, located in the famous Mesilla valley, a batch of subscribers, as follows:

L. Lapoint, W. J. Terry, Jacinto Arroyo, A. L. Christy, L. Froelich and Co., S. B. Newcomb, John Schmidt, T. Brennan, P. Pino, J. F. Lohman and A. Schenk.

The proprietors of THE CITIZEN have made arrangements for the free delivery of papers to all Las Cruces subscribers. The above list of names are all new, and added to the already good list of subscribers at Las Cruces, places THE CITIZEN far ahead of any paper in the Mesilla valley, even any of the El Paso daily papers, which are only about forty miles distant.

It is safe to say that the circulation of THE CITIZEN, south, north, east, and west of the city, including 135 subscribers at Gallup, as far west as Needles, as far south as El Paso and as far north as La Junta, where our two traveling correspondents have reached, is about 1,000, leaving about 900 subscribers for the city of Albuquerque and Bernalillo county.

If any person doubts the truthfulness of the above declaration, let them call around at the office between 4 and 6 o'clock p. m., and observe the press which the white sheets off at the rate of 1,200 an hour.

If the above is not good news to our merchants, those who believe in advertising and who want to pay for what they receive, what is?

TAKES A GUN.

This morning W. H. Matson, formerly traveling auditor for this division of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad company, officially took charge of the station here, vice T. H. Healy, resigned. Mr. Matson is a pleasant gentleman, courteous and accommodating, and will soon demonstrate to his many friends that he is a competent railroad agent. Mr. Healy, who retired, has been with us for the past several years, and there is not a reader of THE CITIZEN who will not regret to learn of his resignation. Where ever he may locate in the future, the very best wishes of a host of warm friends, together with THE CITIZEN, will accompany him and his estimable wife. Mr. Healy returned to the city from a business trip to Topeka last night.

A. L. Conrad, formerly traveling auditor for the Santa Fe road, with headquarters at Hutchinson, Kan., arrived from the north last night, and assumes at once the position made vacant by the promotion of Mr. Matson as agent. Mr. Conrad was introduced to THE CITIZEN man, and he is a very agreeable gentleman. He will get along nicely, no doubt, among the southwest folks in the employ of the railroad company and those on the outside.

WITNESS FOR SELF.

Against the inroads of that subtle, lurking foe to human health, malaria, has been extended usefully, ben Hester's Stomach Bitters appeared upon the scene and demonstrated its power as a preventive and curative of the dreaded scourge. When the "gold fever" raged in 1899 in California, malaria was contemporaneous with it as the "digging" and brought dreadful havoc among the miners. Then and subsequently on the Isthmus of Panama, and wherever in the tropics malaria disease is most virulent, the Bitters became the recognized safeguard. For the effects of exposure and fatigue, miasma poisoned and was er, and brought dreadful havoc among the stomach, liver and bowels, the Bitters affords prompt relief. Invalids of all sorts will find it fully adequate to their needs.

His name will be written at the top of the column next to reading matter and nothing in the house will be too good for him. He will get comps to all the hard recitals and have a reserved seat beside the editors, while all the delinquent subscribers will have to carry water for the performers and sit in the gallery.

A BARRING SCAPE.

Mrs. Margaret Doolan, an old lady came within an ace of meeting with a horrible death last Saturday night. She arrived from Cerrillos on the delayed No. 1 passenger train, and had purchased a ticket for her home at Gallup. The No. 2 passenger train, from the south, had just at that time pulled in, and the platform, likewise the two waiting rooms, were crowded with passengers. Mrs. Doolan was under the impression that the train she was to take was moving away and she then rushed out of the depot and attempted to cross the track on the west side of the platform. The engine that was to pull the No. 2 passenger north came up the track from the round house, and struck the old lady, tossing her in the air and throwing her to one side of the track. She was picked up, carried into the ticket office, and Dr. Kaster dressed her wounds.

He found a gash in the forehead, just above the left eye; a cut between the right eye and nose; a slight cut on upper and lower lips, and the bridge of the nose broken. The doctor washed the blood from the face of the old lady, and skillfully dressed and bandaged the wounds. The polite and accommodating depot policeman placed her safely on the west-bound No. 3 passenger train, when she continued her journey to Gallup. Mrs. Doolan was called to Cerrillos to attend the burial of her son, Pat. Doolan, who fell over a thirty-foot embankment and broke his neck.

THE PRATY EXPLAINED.

A wrong impression got among the local depositors of the Savings Bank from an item in Saturday's CITIZEN, that the bank would pay a ten per cent dividend on debenture bonds, on the 1st of October.

When the bank closed its doors it had an issue of $48,000 in debenture bonds, held in Vermont and other New England states, with $50,000 of the bank's paper in the hands of trustees, to secure the issue of bonds. The contract the bank had with the trustees provided that in case the bank failed to pay the interest on the bonds, the security was forfeited to the trustees for the benefit of the bond holders. When the receiver was appointed the bond holders sent an attorney out here to see what could be done about the bonds, and what provision could be made to pay them. The bond holders would not surrender the securities, and come as a common creditor; neither would they take the securities and release the bank from further liability, so it was finally agreed that the receiver should take the securities and collect them and apply the proceeds as collected to pay off the bonds, the bond holders not to participate in any other dividends until their securities were exhausted. The court approved this agreement and the receiver took up the bonds and issued a receiver's "certificate for debenture bonds," and is kept separate from the other account and paid out as it accumulates in the same way as dividends to common creditors, except from funds derived from their own securities. The expense of collecting and disbursing the debenture money is prorated with the expense of settling up the affairs of the bank.

No Preacher for Cerrillos.

Presiding Elder Rev. W. D. Clayton tells the Cerrillos Rustler that he has it from Bishop Key that Rev. T. L. Adams will be sent to Cerrillos as pastor of the Methodist Church South. Rev. Adams comes to Cerrillos from the Northwest Texas conference, and will arrive about November 1; in the meantime Rev. Clayton will probably hold services every Sunday. He will surely be here next Sunday morning, after which announcements will be made. In the communication from Bishop Key to Rev. Clayton, he says, speaking of Rev. Adams, "he is a bright man and a fine preacher." From what we can learn, Cerrillos is to be congratulated upon having assigned to it a minister who is so likely to give general satisfaction. We hope to be able to give him a cordial welcome. Presiding Elder Clayton, after the arrival of Mr. Adams, will be here only once in every three or four months.
